HSBC Provides Further Support to Longstanding Local Business for Expansion

HSBC has provided financing facilities to 4th generation Isle of Man family business, Edward Bryan Removals. The investment in the company's infrastructure has enabled them to refurbish their offices and warehouse and expand its services, by funding the purchase of two removal vehicles.

Established in 1894, Edward Bryan Removals Limited has been trading for more than 100 years on the Island and has been banking with HSBC for 22 years. The Bank has also previously assisted with the purchase of their business properties on the Isle of Man during this time.

To remain one of the Island's foremost removals services, the company decided to invest in the vehicles and refurbishment as a long-term saving. Prior to this, Edward Bryan Removals routinely hired vehicles in the UK for some removal jobs. As part of its ongoing growth, ensuring people have an easy moving experience within and to the Isle of Man, one new vehicle will remain at a depot in Liverpool for use across the UK and the other will be used locally in the Island.

Nicky Bryan, Managing Director, Edward Bryan Removals, commented:

"We have long been customers of HSBC and without them the company would not be as healthy as it is today. We are proud to have remained a strong family business for so long, and we are thrilled to be able to expand and develop our services for the future."

Jaime Amoedo, Head of Corporate and Commercial Banking, HSBC also said:

"Edward Bryan Removals is a fine example of a longstanding, well-loved local business which has stood strong in what can sometimes be a testing market for smaller businesses to operate in. We are very happy to have supported the company for over 20 years and to remain a key part of its future as well."
